

BEST PRACTICE: 2

Magazine and Wallpapers

The institution uses to publish magazine miscellany and wall papers regularly every year. Wall papers - The publication of the wall papers is organized every year on occasion of Independence Day and Republic Day, which gives wide scope for the students to express themselves. It reflects the mind of the students and the students also give good response to the wall papers. The poems, articles, essays, short stories and other creative things like posters, collage are published by the magazine and wallpapers department. The wall papers are published minimum two times per year and the notice board which is at the very entrance of the college is used for publishing these articles in order to give the wide publicity to it.

The college magazine is the mirror reflection of the total college activities. The institution publishes the college miscellany entitled 'KANAK' every academic year. The following data about the miscellany shows how students are encouraged to write on the various things and express their views, attitudes and opinions on the topics of their choice.

- An article on Gender Equality-Need of Time
- An article on Thoughts of Swami Vivekananda
- An article on Cht. Shivaji Maharaj-Role Model for Modern India
- An article on Education during British Time
- An article on Organ Donation – New Life for Needy People
- An article on Thoughts of Gandhi and today's Youth.
- An article on Vijay Durga a Impregnable Fort
- An article on Role of Youth in Nation Building.
- An article on Stephan Hocking a second name of Will Power.
- An article on Untold Success Story.
- An article on Fight for the Foetus.
- An article on Dream Come True..
- An article on Malala Yusuf.
- An article on Multiculturalism and India

The students use to write on the various aspects of the life they come across. The magazine includes the literature written in English, Hindi and Marathi languages. The students compose poems on various subjects and those poems are edited by the editorial board and later on published in the college magazine.